COMPANY PROFILE

NovImmune SA ('NovImmune') is a drug discovery and development company with a focus on the development of therapeutic monoclonal antibodies for inflammatory diseases and immune-related disorders. The company is based in Plan-les-Ouates/Geneva, Switzerland.

To date NovImmune has generated seven monoclonal antibodies with the intent to treat immune-related disorders. The pipeline is a balance of preclinical and clinical compounds, specific for clinically validated and novel targets. Each of these portfolio products has the potential of becoming a medicine for multiple medical conditions due to the intrinsic mechanism of action.

Two compounds are in early clinical development with the most advanced in clinical phase II. The lead product, NI-0401/anti-CD3, is currently being tested in Crohn's disease, type 1 diabetes and transplantation. Two more are in preclinical and GMP manufacturing.

TECHNOLOGY

NovImmune masters three different, established and validated technologies in house:

- The UltiMab system to obtain fully human therapeutic monoclonal antibodies using transgenic mice (technology licensed from Medarex),
- Antibody display selection, that is the selection of fully human antibodies displayed on bacteriophages (technology pioneered and developed by CAT)
- Humanization, that is the grafting of the small sequences responsible for the recognition and binding of the antigen from a non-human species to a fully human mAb backbone
